

Haverkamp v. Haverkamp

Tulsa County family-and-domestic case record referencing Winters & King representation

Record Summary

The supplied case-record image identifies a Tulsa County, Oklahoma, family-and-domestic matter styled Haverkamp v. Haverkamp, Case No. FD-1998-3724. The image reflects a divorce case filed September 3, 1998, and closed September 15, 1998. In the parties section, it lists Denise Haverkamp as plaintiff, Jason Haverkamp as defendant, and Michael James King as attorney.

Important scope note. The supplied image documents the face of a court-record entry. It does not, by itself, establish the employment status of either party, the reason for representation, the merits of the divorce, a ministry relationship, misconduct, or any conflict of interest.

Public-Interest Questions

- When an attorney or law firm appears in multiple family-law matters involving people associated with the same religious or employment community, what conflict-screening safeguards are used?
- Are staff members and their spouses clearly informed of their right to independent legal counsel when organizational relationships may create unequal access, influence, or perceived pressure?
- What written policies protect employees from retaliation, loss of employment, loss of housing stability, or unequal treatment during a personal family-law dispute?
- Who independently reviews concerns when a private divorce may overlap with leadership, workplace authority, ministry resources, or professional networks?
- What transparency practices help donors, employees, congregants, and affected families distinguish a lawyer's private representation from an organization's institutional involvement?

Publication Disclosures

Public-record and fair-context disclosure

This publication is intended for public-interest research, documentation, advocacy, and discussion of information reflected in the supplied record image. It is not legal advice and is not a judicial finding, investigative finding, or statement of wrongdoing by any person, law firm, organization, employee, or ministry.

No inference from attorney listing

An attorney name appearing in a case index or court record does not, by itself, prove any organizational relationship, improper influence, conflict of interest, liability, misconduct, or knowledge by any third party. Legal representation in a private family-law matter should not be treated as evidence of wrongdoing without reliable, independently verifiable evidence.

Employment-status limitation

The source image does not independently verify whether a named party was employed by, affiliated with, or acting on behalf of any organization at the time of the case. Any claim about employment or organizational affiliation should be supported by separate reliable documentation before publication.

Privacy and family-law sensitivity

Divorce and family-law matters are sensitive. This document does not attempt to report allegations, custody details, financial information, addresses, contact information, minor-related information, or other personal material not needed to describe the face of the supplied record. Additional personal information should be redacted before republication.

Verification and corrections

Readers should obtain and review official court records before drawing conclusions. Oklahoma Child Wellbeing welcomes documented corrections or additional public records that clarify the context of this filing. Corrections should be sent to info@okchildwellbeing.org.

Purpose

The purpose of this document is to encourage transparent ethical safeguards, independent review, and fair treatment in situations where personal legal disputes may overlap with workplace, ministry, leadership, or professional networks. Questions are not findings; they are accountability questions intended to support informed public discussion.
